

Registration efsli Spring school 2010 now open!

Registration deadline February 13

Registration is now open for the efsli spring school that will take place from 9 – 11 April in Prague, in cooperation with Czech Chamber of Sign Language Interpreters (CKZTJ). The topic is Deaf interpreters in a team. Please note that places are limited and placement is on a first come, first serve basis.

The presenters of the efsli school are Robert Adam (UK), Senan Dunne (Ireland), Juli af Klintberg (Sweden), and Markus Aro (Finland). Take a look at the registration, programme, and background information online:

efsli board live meeting

From 8 – 10 January the efsli board met in Milan for their annual three day meeting. The efsli board worked hard to cover all the items on the three day agenda, such as the future efsli schools, financial results, new membership structures, new publications, and international relations. The efsli board uses this mid year meeting to determine all the work that needs to be accomplished in the coming months prior to the AGM on 10 September in Glasgow.

Marinella Salami, head of the efsli training department, was our wonderful Italian host for this meeting. On Friday afternoon two members of ANIOS attended the meeting to discuss the efsli AGM & conference 2011 that will be hosted by ANIOS.

Call for trainers efsli summer school

The efsli summer school will take place from 5 – 10 July in Siena, Italy. A call for trainers was sent to all members and relations. The deadline for submission to present is March 1st. You can find the call for trainers online: http://www.efqli.org/efqli/efqlischools/summerschool_2010.html

Survey on training needs

The efsli training department has organised a variety of efsli schools during the last years. In order to meet your future training needs, efsli has made an online survey:

www.surveymonkey.com/s/PRY8LPX

You are kindly asked to fill in the survey before March 15th. We thank you for your feedback.

efqli on LinkedIn

Have you found efsli on LinkedIn yet? efsli is available as a group on LinkedIn to connect all efsli individual members. LinkedIn is a website where professionals around the world can keep in contact. You can choose which information you like to share with your contacts. In this way you can keep in contact with other interpreters who are also efsli members. The efsli group is a closed group, so only efsli individual members can join. If you would like to join efsli on LinkedIn, you need to sign up with LinkedIn (free). After you have made an account you can find efsli through the search options. We are looking forward to linking up with many of you.

efqli AGM minutes approved

All efsli full members received the efsli AGM minutes of 17 September 2010, and were asked for comments. No replies were received, this means that the minutes are approved by the full members.

Call for manuscripts

A call for manuscripts has been sent by The International Journal of Interpreter Education (IJIE), for Volume 2, 2010. The deadline for manuscript submission is 30 March 2010. They are particularly interested in articles that explore research on interpreting education (in any languages), and also commentary pieces on teaching activities. Authors can find the IJIE manuscript submission template here: www.cit-asl.org/Journal/notes.html

Legal interpreting report

The EU DG Interpretation carried out a reflection forum on legal interpreting and has published a report on it. Please see here for the download:
